Modernism in Ukraine

1910-1930

Fall/Winter 2006-2007

This exhibition includes approximately 70 paintings by both world-famous and relatively unknown artists who created an extremely rich repository of modern works influenced by Ukrainian traditions and lifestyles.

Encompassing a range of styles – among them Expressionism, Cubo-Futurism, and Constructivism – Ukrainian modernism searched for new means of expressing its identity fusing contemporary international developments with native artistic traditions. Alongside their Russian and Western contemporaries, Ukrainian artists explored the richness of their own heritage against a backdrop that included the revival of interest in Ukrainian history, language, and cultural traditions under way in the early twentieth century. The avant-garde that emerged resulted in a distinctive, contemporary visual language that, like Ukraine itself, was a crossroads: a confluence of dueling differences, past and present, folk and urban, East and West, native and foreign.

Featuring works by previously unknown Ukrainians such as Vasyl Yermylvov and Olexander Bohomazov, this exhibition spotlights their talents alongside such well-known figures of the period as Kazimir Malevich, David Burliuk, and Alexandra Exter.

On view from November 5, 2006 - March 11, 2007
